

Rapture

with eyes closed
the curvature of hipbones
bends light
    like gravity

an upward glance
accompanied by laughter
collapses stars

giving birth to some wild universe inside mathematical folds
intricate somatic geometry

the swerve of matter
towards matter, magnetism
    holding poetics in place

symphonic
synchronic inscription

within your space
every inhalation carries
    dust from light years

she breathes a star's
white blaze
from every pore

cradled in my spiral
arms, turning
storms that
    burn as does
    her gaze

being is reduced
    to ash
before the dilation
    of pupils

across an infinite
black plain

where the blooms
of lacquered fingers sway
in cosmic wind

a billion
billion particles
of her
explode across
my skin

shattering essence
interplanetary contact

flaming tongues
of lava flows
on surfaces
stripped of oxygen

wet red heat
concussion of
pulsars

everything a
twisting dance

lips and teeth
drift

arms and legs
crest

bright dark hair
crashes

comets
and asteroids

colliding in
architectonic rapture
sublime apocalypse

god and goddess
intertwined
divine artwork

where time
accelerates to
the speed
of light

vanishing in
her endless
rooms