

The Dawn

the dawn is coming
horizon now aglow
single band of orange
and white

tomorrow has arrived
and fills my lungs
my wings
with luminescent breath

across the open sea
my gaze is cast
behind burns
a pillar of ruin

unlike the wife
of Lot
I do not look back

the only salt
I taste
is oceanic
air

the only sound
I hear
is waves